LATEST HURRICANE NEWS VIDEO REPORTS COLLATED BY ONE NEWS PAGE

Leading global news portal One News Page today announces its collation of latest hurricane news video reports as a useful information resource for those tracking hurricane forecasts, preparedness advice and first-hand video reports from local broadcasters. The announcement is made in the light of Hurricane Irma closing in on the U.S. mainland.

With the devastation caused by Hurricane Harvey having taken precedent over much of the news in recent weeks all eyes are now set on Hurricane Irma – one of the most powerful in history – as it makes its track towards mainland US.

One News Page, the high-speed news portal overseen by its founder and CEO Marc Pinter-Krainer, serves as a useful resource in providing U.S. online users with access to latest hurricane video reports by trusted broadcasters, helping them stay updated on track predictions, advisories, tips on how to prepare as well as local reports from affected areas.

“Interest in news surrounding hurricanes runs at an unprecedented high level this year, with the current focus being on Hurricane Irma” advises Dr Pinter-Krainer. “Our coverage of hundreds of trusted local, national and international broadcasters brings together the latest video reports in one place, making One News Page a helpful resource in staying up to date.”

One News Page offers access to its fast-growing library of more than 8 million news video reports originating from trusted broadcasters free of charge, allowing site users to stay updated and watch relevant news reports as they emerge, or access historic reports from an archive spanning four years. No site registration is required.
